National Survey of Latinos: The Latino Electorate

October 2002

Methodology

The Pew Hispanic Center/Henry J. Kaiser Family Foundation National Survey of Latinos: The Latino Electorate is an excerpt from the National Survey of Latinos, which will be released in full in December 2002. The survey was conducted by telephone between April 4 and June 11, 2002 among a nationally representative sample of 4,213 adults, 18 years and older, who were selected at random. Representatives of The Pew Hispanic Center and The Kaiser Family Foundation worked together to develop the survey questionnaire and analyze the results. International Communications Research of Media, PA conducted the fieldwork in either English or Spanish, based on the respondent's preference.

Of those who were interviewed, 2,929 identified themselves as being of Hispanic or Latin origin or descent (based on the question "Are you, yourself of Hispanic or Latin origin or descent, such as Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, Dominican, Central or South American, Caribbean or some other Latin background?") and throughout this report they will be referred to interchangeably as either "Latinos" or "Hispanics." In addition, interviews were conducted with 1008 non-Hispanic whites, and 171 non-Hispanic African Americans. The results are weighted to represent the actual distribution of adults throughout the United States.

This report is primarily based upon responses from those who said that they were registered to vote — 1329 Latinos, 838 non-Hispanic whites, and 136 non-Hispanic African Americans reported they were registered to vote at their current address. It should be noted that registration status is self-reported and a common finding in public opinion polling is that registration status is often over-reported when compared to actual registration records. The margin of sampling error is +/- 3.6 percentage points for Latinos who are registered to vote, +/- 3.7 percentage points for registered whites, and +/- 11.3 percentage points for registered African Americans. Note that sampling error may be larger for other subgroups and that sampling error is only one of many potential sources of error in this or any other public opinion poll.

Of the Latinos who said they were registered to vote, 655 were born in the United States (not including Puerto Rico) and 674 were born outside of the United States or on the island of Puerto Rico. Throughout this report, Latinos who were born in the United States will be referred to interchangeably as either "U.S.-born" or "native-born" and Latinos who were born outside of the United States will be referred to interchangeably as either "born outside of U.S." or "foreign-born." Furthermore, whenever the labels "registered whites" or "registered African Americans" are used, it refers to those non-Hispanic whites or non-Hispanic African Americans who reported being registered to vote.
